

TOM TYNAN

Experienced executive who worked across a range of agri-business and policy areas holding a variety of senior management roles, latterly Commercial Director and Chief Operating Officer. Experience spans commercial, strategy, operations and advisory.

Currently Non-Executive Director of the Shannon Foynes Port Company (ROI), Marine Institute (ROI), and Agri-Food Bioscience Institute (Northern Ireland). Previously held posts on the Board of Teagasc (Ireland's Agriculture & Food Development Authority), Agri-Aware and the Scientific Advisory Board of Alltech.

European Commission Member of Cabinet who served over six years in EU Commissioner's Trade and Agriculture & Rural Development Cabinets. Previously acted as Special Adviser to the Irish Minister of Agriculture, Food & Forestry in the Irish government.

Educated at University College Galway (UCG), University College Dublin (UCD), Harper Adams University College Shropshire and UCD Michael Smurfit Graduate Business School. UCD 2015 Alumni Award winner from the UCD School of Agriculture and Food Science.